2016-2017 Individual Research Seed Grant Application

Objectives of Individual Research
The Program for Transborder Communities (PTC) Individual Research Seed Grant supports academic year-long efforts by Arizona State University (ASU) faculty pursuing a research project focused on transborder communities and critical social, cultural, economic, political and environmental processes occurring at the intersection of borders and society. While the main focus of PTC is the US-Mexico borderlands, applications focusing on other border regions of the world will be considered if they directly contribute to the understanding of transborder communities and processes.

Individual research seed grants are platforms to support and enhance existing faculty expertise and/or to examine the changing needs and growing cultural, political, environmental, and economic influence of Latinos/as and transborder communities in the US-Mexico borderlands. Ultimately, individual research grant recipients are expected to contribute to the development of a collective and sustainable research program on transborder studies by initiating projects that have good prospects of obtaining external funding.

Individual research seed grant recipients may receive up to $3,000 per project to cover research materials, travel, and/or supplies.

During the course of the year of funding, individual research grant recipients are expected to submit a halfway progress report, a final report due 60 days after the funding period end date, make a public presentation in the PTC seminar, and acknowledge/credit PTC in publications and other activities produced with the support of the Individual Research Seed Grant.

Eligibility
This cycle is open to faculty at any of the ASU campuses who are eligible to submit grants to external funding agencies.

Review process and selection criteria
There will be three individual research seed grants operating this academic year. Submitted proposals will be peer-reviewed by an interdisciplinary committee using the following criteria:

- Robustness and consistency of individual’s work plan (goals, activities, calendar, and implementation).
- The investigator’s capability to undertake the research goals.
- Potential of funding from external agencies.

Individual Research Funding Information
Awards are for a 12-month, fiscal year period and no extension will be granted. Allowable expenses are travel reimbursements, including field and archival research, and research materials and supplies. Non-allowable expenses are meals/food/water/drinks not associated with in travel status per diem.

Application Submission Instructions
The deadline for the PTC 2016-2017 individual research application is Friday, May 6, 2016 at 5 p.m. MT. Please submit one electronic copy of the application materials to (preferably PDF format) to ptc@asu.edu. For additional information. Please contact Elizabeth Cantú, PTC Program Manager at (480) 727-7583 or Elizabeth.Cantu@asu.edu.
2016-2017 Individual Research Grant Application

1. Name, Academic Rank, Academic Unit of Applicant.

2. Title of Proposed Research Project:

3. Project Narrative
   - a two-page description of the work to be done (approximately 750-1,000 words) describing goals, activities, and strategies, as well as the contributions of the proposal to the understanding of transborder communities and processes along the US-Mexico borderlands and/or other border regions of the world;
   - a list of relevant bibliographic references;
   - a half-page statement (approximately 250 words) describing potential external funding agencies and why these funding agencies are a good fit for the proposed project;
   - a timeline to accomplish the goals of the proposal, not to exceed one page (approximately 500 words);
   - budget narrative of how seed grant funds will be used throughout the funding period, not to exceed one page (approximately 500 words);
   - a two-page C.V.

Signature of the applicant*:
___________________________________  __________________
___________________________________  __________________

Signature of the unit head(s)*:
___________________________________  __________________
___________________________________  __________________
___________________________________  __________________

*Signature of the applicant indicates that the applicant agrees to submit a proposal for external funding through ORSPA prior to the deadline, or the limited submission deadline if applicable.